Hello Envy Pools team,

My name is Joshua Chappell and I am applying for the Marketing Manager position. Your posting says this is not a posting job, and that is why I am writing. I have spent seven years on active construction sites with a camera, and the rest of my time running the marketing behind the footage.

The content side is the part most applicants can show. I have filmed construction, trades, and industrial work across the Valley and cut it into brand films that actually sell the craft; you can see that work at the Construction Work link above. I shoot it, edit it, grade it in DaVinci Resolve, build the motion graphics in After Effects, and mix the audio. I hold an FAA Part 107 drone license, so the aerial reveal of a finished backyard does not require booking a vendor.

The marketing side is where I separate from most shooters. At Charter One I created and led a social initiative that earned more than 20x the engagement of standard content, and a campaign that raised ad click-through by over 200%. At Lightbox I ran Meta ads with pixel tracking on site, and closed $10k in new business from one optimization channel. I hold a Master's in Marketing with an analytics specialization, so qualified leads, ROAS, and signed revenue are the numbers I already work in.

The third part of the job is the one people skip. I built my company on referral relationships with custom home builders, developers, and realtors; I filmed model homes for Blandford Homes and photographed listings for agents. I know how to walk into a builder's office and leave with a project. I also organize community events with my local church, so representing a brand in a room is familiar ground.

Four things on your preferred list are construction and real estate marketing, Meta Ads with lead-generation results, FAA Part 107, and motion graphics, color grading, or sound design. I have all four. I live in Mesa, twenty minutes from your Gilbert office, and I have shot in Arizona summer heat at 5 a.m. and at dusk more times than I can count.

Thank you for your time. I would welcome the chance to walk you through the work.

Sincerely,
Joshua Chappell
