How to apply	Apply by email to careers@cardoneventures.com. Attach the resume and put the job title and where he found it (Indeed) in the subject line. Why it fit

- He shoots and edits his own footage, which is exactly what the posting asks for. He has 7+ years (they ask for 5+) on three professional camera systems: Sony FX3/FX6, Canon and RED.
- He has every editing tool they name: Premiere Pro (required) plus After Effects, DaVinci Resolve and Frame.io (preferred).
- He has short-form results with numbers behind them (20x engagement, 200%+ click-through lift at Charter One). His AI workflows cut production time in half, and AI efficiency is one of the posting's stated objectives.
- He has executive and high-volume experience: CEOs at Lightbox, RFK Jr. and the AZ Speaker of the House at the Legislature, and 200+ videos in two years at GCE. Photography, which the posting calls a plus, is also covered.

Gaps to be ready for

Suggested answers carried over from the original analysis. Some assume a course or certification is under way; say those only if they are true when you interview.

- Podcast production. The posting mentions podcasts five times, and he has no podcast credits. Answer: "I haven't produced a podcast series, but I've shot multicam, properly lit and mic'd interviews for years. A podcast is a locked multicam interview with sustained audio, so it's the same skill set."
- Teleprompter shoots. They are listed as a competency but are not in his record. Answer: "I haven't run a teleprompter shoot yet, but I've directed talent on camera for seven years, and the setup is quick to learn."
- Asana. They name it; he has used Wrike, Notion, Trello and Workamajig. Answer: "I've run projects in four tracking tools. Asana works the same way and I can be up to speed in a day." (Asana Academy is free.)
- Captions and sound design are named deliverables but not spelled out on the resume. Answer: "I do both on every social cut in Premiere and Audition. Here's an example." Have one ready.

COMPANY RESEARCH

Cardone Ventures is a business consulting and coaching company. It sells courses, runs live events, and makes partnerships and investments for business owners. CB Insights says it was founded in 2019. Brandon Dawson is CEO and co-founder with Grant Cardone. It has offices in Scottsdale, AZ and Aventura, FL (Miami area). Sites give headcounts anywhere from 51-200 to 251-500. All the review data below is company-wide: it mixes Scottsdale and Florida staff, and sales, events, finance, HR and marketing roles. Few reviews come from video or creative staff. The ones found are two Indeed video editor reviews (a critical one from September 2026 and a positive one from Miami in January 2025), one Glassdoor video editor review (Aventura, May 2025, positive), and a Glassdoor Marketing Manager page with only 2 reviews. I took the ratings and counts from search-engine snapshots, not the live pages, and they differ by date: Glassdoor shows 152 to 190 reviews and Indeed 64 to 72. Several of the harshest Glassdoor reviews are from 2022-2024. Don't confuse Cardone Ventures with Cardone Capital or Grant Cardone Enterprises (separate Cardone companies) or with Cardone Industries (an unrelated auto-parts maker).

Glassdoor

4.2 / 5 (work-life balance 3.6, the lowest sub-score; compensation and benefits 4.0; 80% would recommend; about 90% approve of CEO Brandon Dawson) (About 190 (snapshots show 152 to 190)) Company-wide, not team-specific. Reviews are sharply split. Positive reviews mention mentorship, investment in employee development, about three weeks of onboarding focused on values and culture, good coworkers, and a 'work hard, play hard' feel. Negative reviews (several from 2022-2024, titled 'Do Not Work Here', 'Avoid this place', 'Honest Review Please Stay Clear') describe long hours and weekend work, very high turnover, constant changes to procedures and processes, a 'cult like' culture, and a required daily CardoneU video task. One 2024 reviewer says the culture has gone downhill since 2021. The only video-role review found (Aventura, FL, May 2025) is positive: it praises team leads and says the company keeps its gear current. Glassdoor's interview data says Video Editor hires are made fastest (about 1 day on average). Source

Indeed reviews

4.5 / 5 (work-life balance about 4.1; work wellbeing score 80) Company-wide, about 71-72 reviews (one snapshot said 64), so a small sample. A social media coordinator praised a supportive team, strong growth, and good benefits. A sales rep said the job pays well but expects weekend work plus extra time for 2-3 day events. An event coordinator said leadership judged employees and customers on appearance. A 2026 Scottsdale sales review said the company does not like the term 'work-life balance'. The newest review (September 2026) is from a video editor. It describes a high-pressure culture and says much of the job was making content that showed the owner and company as more successful than things felt inside. A January 2025 video editor review from Miami was positive (high-energy, supportive, performance-focused). The Indeed connector was down, so I could not pull company data directly. Source

Reddit

No Reddit threads about working at Cardone Ventures came up in several standard and extended searches. The closest thing was a post on Fishbowl (a different anonymous work forum) from a job seeker asking if anyone had worked there. The only visible reply warned about the Grant Cardone name and gave no first-hand detail.

WHAT EMPLOYEES SAY: PROS AND CONS

Pros

- Good overall scores on both big review sites: about 4.2 on Glassdoor (about 190 reviews, 80% would recommend) and 4.5 on Indeed (about 71 reviews). These cover the whole company, not the content team. [1] [2]
- Several reviewers praise mentorship, investment in employee development, and a long onboarding (about three weeks of training on values and culture). [1] [2]

- People who want fast growth describe a supportive, motivated team with room to advance. A social media coordinator on Indeed mentioned good opportunities and benefits. [1] [2] [3]
- Video staff reviews are partly positive. A 2025 Aventura, FL editor praised team leads and said the company keeps its gear and equipment current. A January 2025 Miami video editor on Indeed called the culture high-energy and supportive. Both are from Florida, not Scottsdale. [1] [2]
- Pay and benefits score fine: Glassdoor compensation and benefits is 4.0, and an Indeed sales reviewer said the job pays well. This posting lists $85,000-$100,000. [1] [2]
- Reviewers say the mission and values are clear and actually used, which matches the values listed in the posting. This review looks older. [1]
- Hiring for video roles has been fast. Glassdoor's interview data says Video Editor hires happen quickest, about 1 day on average. [1]

Cons

- Work-life balance is the lowest score and the most common complaint: long hours, weekend work, and extra days for 2-3 day events. A 2026 Scottsdale review says the company does not like the term 'work-life balance'. [1] [2] [3]
- Turnover is reported as high, with frequent changes to procedures and processes. One 2024 reviewer described 20+ people leaving in under six months and said things have declined since 2021. [1] [2] [3]
- The newest review in this job family (Indeed, September 2026, video editor) describes high pressure and says much of the work was promotional content that made the owner and company look more successful than things felt inside. [1] [2]
- Some negative reviews are harsh about leadership and culture ('cult like', 'Do Not Work Here', 'Avoid this place'). A 2022 Scottsdale reviewer criticized the pay plan, onboarding and leadership and said base pay was low for the market. Most of these are from 2022-2024. [1] [2] [3] [4]
- Some reviewers say they worked overtime and weekends without pay, or that commissions came slowly. Most of these are sales roles and may not apply to a salaried creative job. [1]
- Reviewers mention a required daily CardoneU video task, said to be at least 15 minutes a day with termination possible if missed, on top of the regular workload. [1] [2]
- An Indeed event coordinator said leadership judged employees and customers mostly on appearance. [1]

Watch for

- The most relevant review for this job is the newest one: a September 2026 video editor on Indeed who describes high pressure and making content that oversold the company. It is one review, but it is from this job family.
- Reports of high turnover (for example, 20+ people leaving in under six months in 2024) appear in several Glassdoor reviews.
- Legal news around the brand. Cardone Ventures and 10X Health Ventures sued former executives Gary Brecka and Sage Workinger in federal court in Miami (trademark and breach of executive agreements; amended complaint filed February 2025, in discovery). Separately, Cardone Capital, a different Grant Cardone company, has investor litigation (Ark7 reports a class action certified in March 2026). None of these are claims against Cardone Ventures by employees.
- The Social Content Creator posting did not show up on any indexed job board or in Dice on 2026-10-14, and Indeed could not be checked. It may have closed.

Bottom line

On paper the ratings are good (about 4.2 on Glassdoor, 4.5 on Indeed), but reviews split sharply. People who want a high-intensity, growth-focused place rate it well. Complaints center on long hours, weekend and event work, turnover, and a demanding, brand-driven culture. This role is fully onsite, includes same-day event turnarounds, and requires travel at least twice a quarter, so expect the intense side. The most recent video editor review is critical. It is still worth interviewing. Ask directly: what does a normal week look like, and an event week? How long has the content team been together? How are weekend events handled for salaried staff?
